

Antonia Clarke & Devon Fownes

Writers

Antonia Clarke is a London-based actor and writer, Antonia's credits include Catherine the Great, I May Destroy You and The Girl Before. She can next be seen in cinemas for her independent dark comedy feature, All My Friends Hate Me which premiered at Tribeca Film Festival. Antonia has just wrapped a lead role in Starz's The Serpent Queen. She has a BA in History of Art from Goldsmiths London and an MA in Film Aesthetics and Philosophy from Oxford University.

Devon Fownes once got a packet of almonds off Ryan Reynolds. She has an MFA in Screenwriting from Chapman University and also Business and Chinese degrees from Wake Forest University. At age 7 she wrote her first script, an imaginary journey back through time to the Roman Empire - all in lime-green font. She is a freelance comedy writer currently working in California.

Agents

Jonny Jones

JJones@unitedagents.co.uk

Credits

In Development

Production	Company	Notes
PHIBS 2022	Jellyfish Pictures	Adult animation series