

Peter Yates (Estate)

Writer

Peter Yates was born in Surrey, England, and educated at Charterhouse School. After graduating from the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, he spent several years in the Theatre as an actor and a stage manager. He entered the Film Industry as a dubbing editor before becoming an assistant director, working for Tony Richardson on "The Entertainer" and "A Taste of Honey", Jose Quintero on "The Roman Spring of Mrs Stone", and J Lee Thompson on "The Guns of Navarone".

Agents

Judy Daish

JDaish@unitedagents.co.uk

Assistant

Valli Dakshinamurthi

vmurthi@unitedagents.co.uk