

Lucy Holme

Poet / Writer

Originally from Kent, Lucy Holme has lived in Cork, Ireland for well over a decade. A former private yacht chief stewardess and wine sommelier, her first poetry chapbook Temporary Stasis from Broken Sleep Books was described as a 'haunting exploration of the feminine and the marine' and was shortlisted for the Patrick Kavanagh Award. Her recently published nonfiction essay collection Blue Diagonals was described by The Stinging Fly's nonfiction editor Roisin Kiberd as 'a truly kaleidoscopic memoir, told with nostalgia, wit and poetic intensity'.

Agents

Olivia Davies

odavies@unitedagents.co.uk

Publications

Poetry

Publication Details	Notes
TEMPORARY STASIS 2022 Broken Sleep Books	In this remarkable debut pamphlet, Lucy Holme considers the personal and political, the intimate and universal, the meditative and mythic. Temporary Stasis is testament to Holme's remarkable ability to balance, in the space of a single page, the intimate and the epic. This is a collection that will delight and impress, encourage and challenge, and should be the envy of every writer. These poems are magnificent in execution, with a deftness of language and sensibility that marks Holme's work as masterfully crafted and wholly original.
