

Edward Taylor

Playwright

EDWARD TAYLOR grew up in Southend, Essex, where he acquired his love of the sea. He still aims to be in it or on it as often as possible.

He wrote and performed in the Cambridge University Footlights Revue of 1955 which played in London with great success. He was then invited to join the BBC as a writer-producer on a twelve-month contract. He accepted, and stayed for thirty-six years.

Agents

Nicki Stoddart

nstoddart@unitedagents.co.uk

+44 (0) 20 3214 0869

Credits

Other

Production	Company	Notes
A RISE IN THE MARKET	Throughout Europe
MURDER BY MISADVENTURE	National Tour
PARDON ME PRIME MINISTER	National Tours
PORTRAIT OF FEAR	The Mill, Sonning	